

I was born on July 26, 1973 in Houston, Texas. I was a beautiful, red bone baby girl with sandy, red hair. I was named Tannie Faye Singleton. The name "Tannie" was the first name of my mother's oldest sister. My middle name "Faye" was my mother's twin sister's middle name. My last name changed from "Singleton" to "Collins," when my stepfather decided to legally adopt me. Many say, I was a quiet and easy baby to care for. I believe that to be true because now at age 41, I'm a very easy going and carefree woman. My mother and father met, while working together at a hotel in Houston and later got married. My mother was a hard working woman who was a great homemaker. I don't have many childhood memories of my father. He and my mother married in their early twenties, but soon divorced after three years. Mom was the church girl and my dad was the party man. After all the partying and walking in and out of our lives, my mother finally decided to call it quits and divorced him. My mother took me to church all the time. Church was like our second home. I grew up in New Zion Temple Church of God in Christ in Huntsville, Texas. I loved God and I loved to go to church. As it still does, church excited me. I loved my pastor, also. There were many school age children in the church at that time and he was a father figure to all of us. He nicknamed me "Busy Body." He would prophesy to me all the time and tell me I was going to be a great Missionary. I loved singing in the choir the most. Singing at church was my way of escaping the nightmare I was living at home.

But I will be with you. You will pass through the rivers. But their waters will not sweep over you. You will walk through fire. But you will not be burned. The flames.

When you pass through the waters, I will be with you; And through the rivers, they shall not overflow you. When you walk through the fire, you.

No, sprinting through the fire in a burning building is not a good idea, unless it is the absolute only option that's available to you. And even then, the expectation.

"In the dream you saw a man walking, then fire surrounded him. He came through the fire changed, but not consumed. Tell My children; 'You. Since you are precious and honored in my sight, and because I love you, When you walk through the fire you will not be burned; the flames. God does not bring good news that downplays or ignores harsh realities. when you walk through fire you shall not be burned, and the flame.

While that's sometimes true, fire can actually represent a wide range of literal his wheat into the barn and burning up the chaff with unquenchable fire. talking about church leaders not regular believers and (2) he's using a.
